

Best Indian restaurants in London from cheap eats to fancy dining

By Julie Delahaye Online Travel Writer 22 JUN 2018

We've put together a handy guide to the best Indian restaurants in London serving everything from classic curries to Indian haute cuisine

London has long been a firm favourite with foodies thanks to the wide range of international cuisines to be found throughout the capital - but where it really excels is its offering of brilliant Indian restaurants.

Whether you're after a curry with mates, somewhere fancy for date night or a kid-friendly restaurant, there are plenty of places that serve up really, really good food. Of course with so much on offer it can be difficult to pick somewhere for your night out - so we've done the legwork for you.

We've scoured the streets to bring you a round-up of the best Indian restaurants in London, suiting a wide range of budgets to give you some inspiration for your foodie quest. Check out our top 10 favourites below (in no particular order!).

If you're after fine dining or want something a little more gourmet then this could be just the place.

Namaaste Kitchen in Camden serves up a host of delicious Indian cuisines from modern to traditional curries, biryanis and a delicious range of gluten-free, vegan and halal options too.

Sticking to a budget? The restaurant also offers set menus and tasting menus so you can sample some of the best dishes too.

Average price for a main: Prices from £12.95.

Nearest tube station: Camden Town